Judith of the Plains

By MARIE MANNING.
Author of "Lord Allingham, Bankrupt"

Copyright, 1903, by Harper & Brothers

"He is her lover," said Kitty. And all the while she was before her was no longer than her heart.

Swift, intent, Judith traced Kitty's footprints. They followed the game trail, the one she herself had taken earlier in the day. She traced them back through the pine wood about a hundred rods, and then the trail marks grew confused. This was unquestionably the place where the horses had taken fright, circled, reared, then dashed in different directions. She traced the other horse, whose tracks led under low hanging boughs. It would have been a difficult matter for a horse with a rider to clear, and now the impression of the horse's shoes grew fainter, from the lighter footfalls of a horse at full gallop.

"Ah!" A cry broke from her as she saw the marks had become almost eliminated by something that had dragged, something heavy. Those long drawn lines were finger prints, where a hand had dragged in its vain endeavor to grasp at something. A sickening image came persistently before her eyes—Peter's upturned face, blood smeared and disfigured.

"Sh-sh-sh!" She put her hand to her breast to still the beating of her heart. She could hear the sound of hoofs falling, muffled, on the soft ground and a man's voice speaking in a soothing singsong. She listened. It was Peter's voice, reassuring the horse, asking him what kind of a bag of nerves he was for a cow pony to get frightened at a bear? Judith stood tall and straight among the pines. Surely he could not blindly pass her by. He must feel the joy in her heart that all was well with him. The hoofs came nearer; the man's voice sounded but intermittently as he got his horse under better control. She felt as if he must come to her, as if some overpowering consciousness of her presence would speak from her heart to his, but his eyes scanned the distant trail for a glimpse of Kitty or Kitty's horse.

Judith saw that his head was bowed in something white and that it bore a red stain, but he held himself well in the saddle. He was not the man to heed a tumble. He urged the horse forward, never looking toward the tree trunks, his face white and strained with anxiety as he scanned the trail for evidences of Kitty. The horse, with a keener sense than his master, shied slightly as he passed the group of pines where Judith stood, but Peter's glance was for the open trail, and as she heard him canter by, so close that she could have touched his stirrup with her hand, it seemed as if he must hear the beating of her heart.

"Oh, blind eyes, and ears that do not hear, and heart that has forgotten how to beat! Yes, go to that pale, cold girl! You speak one language, and life for you is the way of little things!"

She waited till the last sound of the horse's hoofs had died away and all was still in the tremulous green of the forest. Judith's mind was busy with the image of their meeting, the man bringing the joy of his youth to the calm divinity who could feel no thrill of fear in his absence. She broke into the running gait and hurried through the forest to the Daxer's.

CHAPTER XV.

THE beef herd that had been the pivotal point of the roundup and had made the mighty plain echo to its stampings and bel-lows, beating up simooms that choked it with thirst, blinded it with dust, confounding itself on every side by the very fury of its blind force, had trailed for a week, tractable as toys in the hands of children. Little had happened to vary the monotony for the cow punchers that handled the herd. They grazed, guarded, watered, a night herded the cattle day after day, and after night, pastureage had been sufficient if not abundant. The creeks were running low and slimy with the advance of summer, but there had been sufficient water to let the herd drink its fill at least once a day.

The outfit ate its "sow belly," soda biscuit and coffee three times a day and smoked its pipes, but was a little shy on yarns round the campfire.

"This yere outfit don't lather none," commented the cook to the horse wrangler over the smoke of an early morning fire.

"Don't lather no more than a chunk of wood," agreed the horse wrangler. "That's the trouble with a picked up outfit like this. Catch W-square men kotowing to a XXX boss, even if he is only acting foreman."

Simpson, the origin of whose connection with the XXX was rather a sensitive subject with that outfit, had begun to take his duties as a cattlemen with grim seriousness. He was untiring in his labors, he spent long hours in the saddle, he took his turn at night herding, though he was old for this kind of work. He condemned the sheepmen with foul mouthed denunciations, scoffed at their range rights, said the sheep question should be dealt with in the businesslike manner in which the Indian question had been settled.

He was an advocate of violence—in short, a swaggering, bombastic wind-bag. He talked much of "this outfit" and "this men." "What was good enough for them was good enough for him," he would announce at meal-time, in a sniveling tone, when the food happened to be particularly bad. He split the temporary outfit, brought together for the purpose of handling the beef herd, into factions. He put the XXX in worse repute than it already enjoyed—he was, in fact, the discordant spirit of the expedition. The men attended to their work sullenly. Discord was rife. The one thought they shared in common was that of the wages that would come to them at the end of the drive; of the feverish joy of "blowing in," in a single night; perchance of forgetting in one long riotous evening the monotony, the hardship, the lack of comradeship that made this particular drive one long to be remembered in the mind of every man who had taken part in it.

Meanwhile the herd trailed its half mile length to the slaughtering pens day after day, all unconscious of its power. When the steers had trailed for about a fortnight the question of finding sufficient water for them began to be a serious one. The preceding winter had been unusually mild, the snowfall on the mountains averaging less than in the recollection of the oldest plainsman. Summer had begun early and waxed hot and dry. The earth began to wrinkle and cracked into trenches, like gaping mouths, thirsty for the water that came not. Such streams as had not dried shrank and crawled among the willows like slimy things, that the herd, thirsty though it was from the long drives, had to coax to drink from.

Discontent grew. The acting foreman, who was a XXX man and a comparative stranger to that part of the country, refused to consult with the W-square men in the outfit, who knew every inch of the ground. The acting foreman thought the Wetmore men looked down on him, "put on dog," and, to flaunt his authority, he ordered the herd driven due west instead of skirting to the north by the longer route, where they would have had the advantage of drinking at several creeks before crossing Green river. Moreover, the acting foreman was drinking hard and he insisted upon his order in spite of the Wetmore men's protestations.

The character of the country began to change; the soil took on the color of blood; even the omnipresent sagebrush began to fail the landscape; sun bleached bones glistened on the red soil, white as ulcers; all the animal trails led back from the country into which they were proceeding; the sky, a vivid, cloudless blue, paled as it dipped earthward; there was no sign of life in all the land; even the grasshoppers had left it to the sun, the silence and the desolation. Above the angry bellow of the thirsty herd the men strained their ears again and again for this familiar sound of life, but there was nothing but the bellowing of the cattle, the tramping of their hoofs and sometimes the long, squealing whinny of a horse as he threw back his head in seeming demand to know the justice of this thing.

Across the red plain snailed the herd like a many jointed, prehistoric reptile wandering over the limitless spaces of some primeval world. A cloud of red dust hung over them in a dense haze, trailed after them a weary length, then all was featureless monotony. What were a thousand steers, a handful of men and horses, in the land of the red silence? It had seen the comings and goings of many peoples, and once it had flowed with streams, but that was before the curse of God came upon it, and in its harsh, dry barrenness it grew to be a menace to living things.

The saddle stock had been watered at some fetid alkali holes that had scarce given enough to slake their thirst. The effect of the water had weakened them, and the steers that had been without water for thirty-six hours were being pushed on a course slightly northwest as rapidly as the enfeebled condition of the saddle horses would permit. Creek after creek that they had made for proved to be but a dry bed.

The glare of the red earth under the sear of the flaming sun tormented the eyes of the men into strange illusions. The naked red plain stretched flat like the colossal background of a screen, over which writhed a huge dragon spined with many horns, headless, trailing its tortuous way over the red world. Sometimes it was as unreal as a fever haunted dream, a drug inspired nightmare, when a Chinese screen, perchance, has stood at the foot of the sleeper's bed. Sometimes the dragon curled itself into a ball, and the foreman sung out that they were milling, and the men turned and rode away from it, then dashed back at it, after getting the necessary momentum, entered like a flying wedge, fought their way into the rocking sea of surging bodies, shouted from their thirst parched throats imprecations that were lost in the dull, sullen roar. Then the dragon would uncoil and again trail its way over the red waste lands.

A red sun had begun to set over a red earth, and the men who had been out since noon scouring the country for water returned to say that none had been found, and they began to look in to each other's face for the answer that none could give. At sunset they made a dry camp. There was but enough water left to cook with. Each man received as a thirst quenching ration a can of tomatoes. After supper they consulted, and it was agreed to trail the herd till midnight, taking advantage of the coolness to hurry them on as fast as possible to Green river. The grave nature of their plight was indicated by the fact that no one smoked after supper. Silent, sullen, they sat round, waiting for the foreman to give the order to advance. He waited for the moon to come up. Slowly it rose over the Bad Land hills and hung round and full like a gigantic lantern.

ENDURANCE TEST

This Seems to Be the Situation Now as Affecting Poland.

TACTICS OF FINLAND

Reports From Warsaw Show That All Parties Are Joining in the Great Nationalist Movement.

The Present Plan of Passive Resistance May Avert Threatened Civil War.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—Emperor Nicholas will resume his residence at Tsarskoe Selo Thursday.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—Private and reliable reports from Warsaw say that all the parties there are joining in the nationalist movement, following the tactics of Finland, for a complete strike. So long as their attitude of passive resistance continues, the issue will be one of endurance. The danger is that the Poles may provoke an active measure which would mean nothing short of civil war. It would be extremely difficult under the present circumstances to attempt to withdraw any troops from European Russia. The number of troops in Poland, however, is sufficient to cope with the situation. With the Polish "quadrilateral," Novogorodsk, Warsaw and Evangorod on each side of the Vistula and Brest on the Bug, there are over 600,000 troops.

The government has decided to make an appeal to the peasants. With the workmen of the cities completely estranged from the government and liberals refusing to aid the authorities there is nothing left but to turn to the peasants, and the emperor has approved a ukase informing them that measures for the amelioration of their condition will receive immediate consideration. The discontent of the peasants and the danger of the spread of the agrarian movement largely contributed to the government's decision.

THE LEAGUE OF LEAGUES

Has Denounced the Declaration of Martial Law in Poland.

St. Petersburg, November 14.—The League of Leagues has adopted a resolution condemning the proclamation of martial law in Poland as an illegal measure directed against the Polish emancipation movement. The Ruskye Slovo prints a dispatch from Warsaw describing a conversation which Governor General Scalon had with a deputation of prominent Poles, during which the governor general distinctly announced that he would not allow the organization of a municipal militia. Moreover, he added, he would neither remove the troops from the city nor from the streets, and he warned the deputation that he was prepared to deal with the situation should the agitation be communicated to the masses.

In addition to increasing the pay of the rank and file of the army, the war department has decided to reduce the term of service by one year. The present pay of the infantry is 11 cents per month and the cavalry 14 cents per month.

The fears of the wholesale pillage and murder of the Jews and intelligentsia by the "Black Hundred" have not entirely disappeared, although the strictest precautions have been taken against probable outbreaks. Two students were beaten to death near Obvorny last night, three house porters were murdered at their doors and many domestic servants left their work, announcing to their mistresses that labor was no longer necessary, as now everybody was on an equality, having become "citizens" and would receive government pensions.

An eminent diplomat, speaking of the situation, said: "The difficulties which confront Count Witte on every side are enormous and would overawe a man of less dominant will and capacity. His task is almost superhuman, but I do not regard it as impossible." Disquieting reports of the progress of the agrarian disorders have been received. The military authorities are rushing troops and machine guns into the affected areas. Inhabitants of Karsk and Tugansk are organizing for the protection of their respective towns. The village of Balanda in the government of Saratoff has been fired by peasants.

Will Not Get Another Job.

Odesa, Nov. 14.—The dismissal of Prefect Neidhardt, to whom is attributed the responsibility of the recent outrages, was announced last evening and caused much rejoicing among the Jewish population. The prefect, it appears, will not receive another appointment. His successor, General Gregorieff, is a conservative anti-Semite.

Relief for Peasantry.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—An Imperial manifesto will shortly be issued granting relief to the peasantry by the cancellation of some twenty million roubles of arrears of the land redemption tax which has been levied since the emancipation of 1861, together with the extension of the operations of the peasant banks.

SET BACK AGAIN

Municipalization Schemes of Mayor Dunne Meet With Cold Favor.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Another ordinance providing for steps to secure municipal ownership of the street railways in Chicago was submitted to the city council last night by Mayor Dunne. The ordinance was accompanied by a message to the aldermen which gave three ways in which Mayor Dunne asserts he will be able to bring about municipal ownership. The first plan is by reaching an agreement with the traction companies by which their property would be transferred to the city at a price to be decided upon by arbiters. The second is by condemnation of the property of the street railway companies under the provisions of the Mueller act. The third method is the one which the mayor has already presented as an alternative to his contract plan. It is for the construction of municipal street railway lines which will parallel the lines of the existing companies. The ordinance which accompanied the message from the mayor asked that authority be given to place on the ballots at the spring election the question whether the city shall issue Mueller bill certificates to the amount of $75,000,000. This sum it is declared by the mayor, is needed for the reconstruction of the lines and for the purchase of unexpired franchise rights of the existing companies. The message and the ordinance were referred to the committee on local transportation, the same fate as that which met the other propositions submitted to the council by the mayor in regard to the municipalization of the Chicago street railways.

Government Ownership in Samoa.

Tutula, Oct. 31, via San Francisco, Nov. 14.—Representatives from each district in Tutula and Manoa attended a colonial meeting at Pago Pago on Oct. 23. The meeting was convened by Governor Moore in order to ascertain the desire of the people concerning the disposition of the copra produce of the year 1905. It was unanimously resolved that the government should call for bids for the purchase of the copra and that the whole crop should be handled by the government. Resolutions were also passed requesting the United States government to continue the administration of the islands under the navy department.

Entire Family Slain.

Philadelphia, Nov. 14.—Max Butowski, a Russian Jew residing in this city, has received a cablegram from Russia stating that his entire family has been murdered by Russians in Odessa. The family, he says, consisted of his father, mother, married sister with five children, two unmarried sisters, two brothers, sister-in-law with four children, her mother and his aunt and her six children—twenty-five persons in all.

Georgia Completely Isolated.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—Twenty-four thousand Georgians, armed with modern rifles, hold Georgia (in Transcaucasia) despite the three important Russian forces converging thereupon, and, except for runners, Georgia has been completely isolated for many days.

New Minister of Education.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—Count John Tolstoi, who resigned the position of head of the academy of fine arts owing to General Trepoof's repulsive policy, has been appointed minister of education.

MUST COME BACK

Insurance Committee Desires Very Much to See Mr. Hamilton.

A CALL ON MR. MCCALL

Peremptory Order Is Given President of New York Life to Secure Hamilton's Return.

Further Interesting Developments in the New York Insurance Investigation.

New York, Nov. 14.—John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance company, was called before the Armstrong committee of insurance investigation and peremptorily ordered by the committee to demand the return from Europe to this country of Andrew Hamilton, the lawyer who has had charge of legislative matters for the New York Life. Mr. McCall was further ordered to demand an accounting from Hamilton of the moneys expended by him and of the balance which he owes the New York Life. Mr. McCall denied that it was the policy of his company to have Mr. Hamilton remain abroad until after this investigation had been concluded, and said that on the contrary he would very much like to have Mr. Hamilton return. Mr. McCall, replying to Mr. Hughes, counsel for the committee, said he had called the attention of the board of trustees of the company to his testimony before the committee relative to Hamilton, and gave Mr. Hughes a copy of his statement, which said that if Hamilton did not return to the New York Life the sum of $235,000 by Dec. 31 he would himself pay it to the company. Mr. McCall said Hamilton was either in Paris or Naulheim.

Another interesting line of examination was opened up just before the adjournment for the day when John McGinness, an employee of the Equitable Life, was called. He produced letter-books and memoranda which Mr. Hughes read and was in the midst of reading when adjournment was taken. There were instructions from former Comptroller Thomas D. Jordan of the Equitable Life to A. C. Fields, relative to the killing or assisting the passage of every bill introduced into the legislature that would affect or help the interests of the insurance company or any of its officers.

Other witnesses were John H. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life, and Vice President Fiske, who were interrogated along the line of agents' salaries, legal expenses of the company, real estate holdings and the methods of acquiring properties, and the fact was brought out that the fire insurance firm that places all the risks on the properties of the Metropolitan is composed of W. D. Edmister and Silas B. Dutcher, the latter a director of the Metropolitan Life.

The low rate of interest at which Mr. Hegeman secured loans and the reason of the rebates of this interest that Mr. Hegeman received from the old firm of Vermilye & Co., was testified by several members of that firm, which has since gone out of business. The firm was the banker of the Metropolitan Life, but since last March the business has been taken over by William A. Reade & Co. Mr. Reade was a witness and said that Mr. Hegeman got these loans at a rate below the market rate because Mr. Hegeman had been a client for a number of years and because of the volume of business he transacted with the firm of Vermilye & Co.

LEONARD'S STORY CREDITED

Judge Accepted Tale of Object Lesson to Wall Street.

New York, Nov. 14.—Harry A. Leonard, the young Wall street clerk who stole $359,000 worth of securities from the City National bank recently, was sentenced to thirteen months' imprisonment in Elmira reformatory. He pleaded guilty, and Judge McMahon, in giving sentence, said he believed the boy's story that he took the securities as an object lesson to Wall street of the ease with which such thefts might be made. All the stolen securities were recovered.

Ancient Title Revived.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Mr. Crip, the minister from Sweden, called at the state department and gave official notice in behalf of his government that King Oscar, in view of the separation of Sweden and Norway had renounced his former title of King of Sweden and Norway and desires to be hereafter known officially as King of Sweden and of the Goths and Vandals thus reviving the ancient and peculiar title of the ruler of Sweden.

No woman can look beautiful without good health. A woman's good health depends on those organs peculiarly feminine, and which so often become disordered, causing misery and dragging-down pain. Nature's laws are perfect, health endures if you obey them, but disease follows disobedience. The distressing complaints of women are often brought about by catching cold at a critical period, breathing foul indoors air and long hours of work and nervous tension. Go straight to Nature for the cure—to the forest. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is Nature's cure for the distressing complaints of women. Prof. King, M. D., in his American Dispensary, says of Black Cohosh or Black Snake-root—"our early American Indians set a high value on this root in diseases of women. It is surpassed by no other drug, in congestive conditions of the parts where there are dragging pains and tenderness."

Lady's Slipper root is a "nerve stimulant and tonic, improving both circulation and nutrition of the nerve centers—favoring sleep and cheerful condition of the mind; of service in mental depression, nervous headache, irregularities of women with despondency."—Prof. King. Besides the above ingredients there are—Golden Seal, Unicorn and Blue Cohosh roots in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Bad Breath Gives A Bad Character

In our daily intercourse with people in both social and commercial life it is absolutely essential that one's breath should be sweet and beyond criticism. For even friends cannot conceal their aversion to a foul breath.

A bad breath is the result of some stomach trouble, indigestion or dyspepsia.

One tablet will bring relief, one box will effect a cure. For instance here's a case in point:

*POSSUM SUPPER.

Samuel Hodapp Entertains Candidates and Committee.

Samuel Hodapp proved himself a most clever and generous host on Monday evening, when at Ed Reed's restaurant he gave a 'possum supper to the republican candidates at the recent city election and to the republican city committeemen. A few days ago he secured for this occasion two fine 'possums and had kept them in cold storage until the time for the spread. They were nicely cooked along with sweet potatoes and were served in first class style by Mr. and Mrs. Reed.

Some of the company had never before tasted 'possum but all pronounced this as fine as anything they ever ate. Plates were passed up for more until there was nothing left of those 'possums but the bones. None in that company will ever take a back seat when 'possum is passed. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Hodapp at the conclusion of the supper.

Mr. Hodapp, who was the republican candidate for councilman in the first ward and came within 14 votes of overcoming a democratic majority of 75, promised this supper before the election and made his word good as he always does. His guests thoroughly enjoyed his hospitality.

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

From Napier New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire lists they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines, Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, cold, croup and whooping cough. This remedy is for sale by C. W. Milhaus.

Made in the Golden Sunlight

It is conceded by the highest authorities that the soda cracker contains the life-giving elements of wheat in the best proportions.

This being so, then Uneeda Biscuit must at once take first place as the food of the world—a soda cracker, but such a soda cracker! Made by exact science in sunny bakeries so light, bright and clean, that they are a revelation. The flour is tested; the purity of the water is absolutely assured; the very air is filtered—why even the temperature and moisture of the atmosphere is accurately regulated. The sponge is kneaded by polished paddles, not by hand. Indeed, Uneeda Biscuit are only touched once, and then by a pretty girl, from the time the flour leaves the bag until the beautiful package is placed on your table.

A POPULAR GUEST

New York Cannot Do Too Much for Prince Louis.

New York, Nov. 14.—Prince Louis of Battenberg passed yesterday in a fashion that would have tested the stamina of a political candidate engaged in a campaign of the whirlwind order, and stood the strain with a fortitude worthy of a British admiral. He began the round of entertainments with a reception at the chamber of commerce, where he was greeted by a representative gathering of captains of commerce and finance. After a brief breathing spell he was whirled down to Coney Island, where he and the officers of his fleet with Admirals Evans and other representatives of the American navy attended a grand banquet given by the blue-jackets of the American war-fleet to their British cousins.

From the Langue a special train bore the prince and his suite to Long Beach, New York in time to appear at the horse show, where a big entrance was the signal for a triumphal welcome from a great assembly of representatives of the fashion and wealth of the metropolis, but of all the principal cities of the Union.

From the horse show the prince proceeded to the Lambs' club, where he was the central figure of a grandly attended by the great social elite of the United States, which continued until the small hours of the morning.

THIS is a splendid time for the merchant to use printers ink. No other investment pays the merchant as well.

THE official count in Ohio shows that the republican state ticket in Ohio except the governor was elected and that the republicans will control the legislature on joint ballot by a small margin.

ONE of the Columbus ministers said in a sermon Sunday that Columbus is clubbed to death. Then he proceeded to go after the progressive euche players in a manner that was not misunderstood. He is sure that social functions in that city are being carried to the extreme and calls a halt.

THE gambling resorts at French Lick and West Baden are to close and quit business. This statement comes from the gambler proprietors themselves. This is a bit of information that will please Indiana people for these open violations of law have been a blot on the state. The credit is due Governor Hanly who is doing his plain duty in persistently insisting that the laws of the state be obeyed.

Taking Levels.

Engineer John E. Jolliffe and his assistants, who are surveying for the Irwin traction line, reached here again from the north Monday evening. This time they are taking the levels this being the third time they have been over the route. They came down on the west side of the river through Jonesville and will go back through Reddington and Azalia Tuesday morning they started out towards Reddington and expect to get back to Columbus the latter part of the week. As yet they are making no statement as to which route will be selected but it is likely that will be determined within a month.

On Law Enforcement.

Judge O. H. Montgomery has kindly consented to address the Wesley Brotherhood on the subject of "Law Enforcement" at the German Methodist church next Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. The public is kindly invited and urged to be present and near him.

W. H. Shields, of Rockford, who had a stroke of paralysis a few weeks ago, is getting able to walk around some again.

Bruce Robertson, whose home is said to be in Brownstown township, and Pie Murphy were before Mayor Graessle on the charge of intoxication.

Both plead guilty and the usual fine was assessed against each of them.

Golden Jubilee.

About twenty-five Seymour friends headed by Rev. C. E. Severinghaus went to Bedford today to treat Rev. Louis Miller to a pleasant surprise and join with him in the celebration of his golden jubilee. Fifty years ago he began preaching and at the same time he was married. Therefore this will be a double celebration.

Rev. Miller was formerly pastor of the German Methodist church in this city and has a host of friends here. Though he has been preaching for fifty years he is yet a vigorous man and a strong preacher. His Seymour friends congratulate him today and trust that he may have many more years of usefulness.

Girl Missing.

Miss Ella McGinnis left her home at Greenwood Nov. 7 and has been able to keep herself concealed up to the present time. Her mother has received three letters from her all of them being mailed on the train at some point on the Louisville division of the Pennsylvania. Officers along the line have been notified to watch for the young woman. She writes that she is happy and well located and tells her mother not to worry.

Ankle Sprained.

Frank Himler, of the Postal Telegraph office, is going around on crutches today because of a sprained ankle. He was out hunting Monday and made a mistep over a log that resulted in a sprain that will make him lame for several days.

Going to Panama.

STATE GRANGE.

Annual Session to be Held Here in December.

The thirty-fifth annual session of the Indiana State Grange will be held in Seymour December 12, 13, 14, and 15. This will be a meeting of more than ordinary importance and will bring together a goodly company of the representative citizens of Indiana. It is important that our people know the character of this gathering and extend the proper welcome.

At 1:30 p. m. December 12, Hon. Aaron Jones, Master of State Grange, will deliver his annual address at an open session and the citizens of the city and county are invited to hear him. He is a man of ability and a good speaker.

On December 12 at an open session formal welcome will be extended to the visitors and addresses will be made by Mayor Graessle and Judge Jno. M. Lewis. The responses will be by Hon. Aaron Jones, of South Bend, and Hon. Milton Trusler, of Connersville. There will be sessions every morning, afternoon and evening. Delegates will be present from all parts of the state. Headquarters will be at the New Lynn.

The Seymour Grange is prefecting arrangements and expect to make this a very pleasant meeting. The local reception committee is composed of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Roeger, D. W. Rapp, J. W. Holmes, Mrs. D. W. Wilson and Mrs. J. O. White.

Sunday Hunting.

All day Sunday the reports of guns could be heard in every direction. On the subject of hunting on Sunday the law says:

"Whoever hunts or shoots song birds or any species of game with any kind of firearms on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars."

This is very plain and any one can understand it. The first thing some of these Sunday hunters know some constable and justice of the peace will have some nice fees coming their way. A great many farmers disapprove of the shooting on their farms on Sunday and it is such disregard of law that makes the land owner more strict. If you are a law abiding citizen seven days in the week you do not shoot game on Sunday.

A Real Actor.

John Griffith is a real actor. He has appeared here before but not in "Richard the Third" in which he will appear at the opera house Thursday night. ### Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price 75 cents per bottle.
